

Tony's Fine Foods, a local specialty food distribution company, has been supporting the Sacramento Children's Home and the Crisis Nursery Program for more than 10 years. Their support has ranged from in-kind donations, event sponsorships, and financial gifts to encouraging their 400+ team members to personally support the program.

Most recently, Tony's Fine Foods held a diaper drive for the Crisis Nursery Program, and in one month collected over 10,000 diapers for the babies and toddlers living at one of the 2 locations. "My brother Karl & I are thrilled our employees donated over 10,000 diapers to the Crisis Nursery Program. It's amazing what a group of people can do when they share the same passion and values. Our grandfather started this business over 75 years ago believing 'Family is business and business is family'. This is a perfect example of our wonderful employees working together, like family, to provide a desperately needed resource to local families and their children," commented Scott Berger, Owner and CFO. Tony's Fine Foods has built an outstanding reputation on their excellent customer service, quality products and their commitment to tradition. It is this commitment to tradition that has paved the way for such a special relationship between Tony's and the Sacramento Children's Home.

When Tony's Fine Foods owners, Scott and Karl Berger, challenged their employees to "fill the sausage truck", no one thought that they would literally be filling the truck, and then some, with diapers! 488 employees participated in this "drive", which ran from April 25 to May 20. Employees in each department challenged each other to see who could collect the most diapers – the 46 person customer service / purchasing department collected 3080 diapers to win!

In 1934, Anthony "Tony" Ingoglia started Tony's Salami Company, which later grew into what Tony's Fine Foods is today – the region's top supplier of specialty meats and other products. Tony's Fine Foods specializes in distributing top quality Deli, Bakery, Food Service and Perishable products. Continuing their tradition of old-fashion service and support, their Customer Service Representatives, Sales Consultants, Product Specialists and Food Logistics Experts provide customers with unequalled value. Their four warehouses provide storage of over 12,000 items in three different temperature zones and state-of-the-art, center-divide climate controlled trailers allow Tony's to deliver an assortment of products, cost-effectively on a single truck.

In addition to the support Tony's Fine Foods has given to Sacramento Children's Home over the years, the owners of Tony's Fine Foods, the Ingoglia family, has been very active in supporting SCH. From hosting private fundraisers to serving as the president of our auxiliary group, Los Amigos, the entire Ingoglia family has been enormously supportive of the programs and services we provide to the children and families in our community.
